About the Book

Avril Dalziel Saunders releases heart warming novel about survival in hard times set in Glasgow late 1960s.

It is 1969 in Glasgow; things are difficult, work is scant and money is tight. James and Linda Alexander start married life with everything seemingly against them, they have a toddler son with another one on the way, they decide to move down south to 'Chase that Carrot'....

The young couple work hard, endure hardships, suffer injustice, but it looks like their perseverance begins to pay off when they buy a house in Kingston upon Thames, Surrey. Their eyes are opened up by some of the 'goings on' in their new street; things, they thought, only happen in films.
