About the Book

Highly enjoyable, self-deprecating humorous travel stories from the Far East

Join Rowley in his light hearted and self-deprecating antics as he works his way around SE Asia, building communication towers on and off the beaten track. This book is about the exciting adventure, the places, people and cultures in Borneo, Thailand, Bangkok, Vietnam and Cambodia.

It's not all humour and frolics. Rowley also gives a brief but interesting insight into the history of each location and the influence of the western world.

Author David Rowley says: "...I have written from the self-deprecating humour angle and would hope that the reader had a chuckle, or at least a smile, every other page or so. Keeping the material clean throughout was perhaps the hardest part, I wanted to avoid lots of swearing which seems to be commonplace in books covering the working man's environment. Though discussing subjects such as STIs without bordering on the cruder style wasn't always easy."
